

FULTON ARMORY SERVICE GRADE M1 CARBINE 30 US CARBINE, $1300

GUN TESTS GRADE: A

Our test crew liked the Fulton Armory carbine the best, and some of us would have put up the extra money to get one that didn't need anything else other than lots of shooting enjoyment. Others of our staff were taken aback by its cost and would take their chances with the CMP surplus guns.

Far Right: We tested with three types of ball ammo, all 110 grain FMJ, which gave slightly differing results in accuracy. We really liked the Fulton carbine shown. It was the slickest, with all original G.I. parts, well matched, well fitted, and newly finished. It had no compromises other than its high cost.

Right: The Fulton Armory had this milled-base sight. Note the serrated adjustment knob and also the adjustable plate for zeroing the windage.
