

CZ MODEL 612 HOME DEFENSE NO. 06520
PUMP ACTION 12 GAUGE, $290
GUN TESTS GRADE: B-

The lack of quality sights and more punishing recoil because of its light frame were the reasons we gave the 612HD a slightly lower grade than the other shotguns.

The hardest to see on a target of all the test models, this plain black ramp front sight did not provide a very good sight picture and may have been part of the reason patterning performance was the poorest of all the shotguns in the test.

Although it was functionally sound and performed appropriately, the plain receiver and standard checkering on the pistol grip were considered a little too bland for our tastes.

However, these features were favored by test team members interested in a self defense shotgun that could be converted to a field gun with the simple swapping out of barrels.

A standard black synthetic forearm that is no different than the forearm on a field gun made the CZ a little harder to hold and control during rapid fire.
